Loco Foco Ticket.

Congress—Alexander Smith.
Assembly—John Busby.
Commissioner—John Pfoutz.
Treasurer—Dr. David Gilbert.
Director—Andrew B. Miller.
Auditor—Joseph Kepner.
Canal Commissioners—James Clarke,
Jesse Miller, William B. Foster, Jr.

The Election.

Is rapidly approaching, and, as is natural, increasing interest in the result is felt. Our loco-foco friends, having succeeded last year in "stealing a march" upon us, appear to have some hopes of playing the same game this year. They know that if they succeed, they will have the control of the Commissioners' Board, and that of the Directors of the Poor, and have a foothold in the noble little county of Adams, from which it will be difficult to dislodge them. Poor fellows! They are giving full scope to their imaginations—but their downfall will be a distressing one. The Whigs of Adams feel too keenly the disgrace of defeat, and have winced too much under the withering taunts of their brethren abroad for last year's delinquency, again to suffer Locofocoism to triumph upon our soil. They feel it a duty they owe to themselves—to their friends abroad—to the noble principles they advocate—to come forth in their might, and show the State that Locofocoism cannot flourish in the territory of the "Young Guard."

It is conceded upon all hands, that we have an excellent ticket. Mr. Cooper has been fully tried, and has represented us in a highly respectable manner. Mr. DIEHL is well known as a firm, intelligent man, and admirably suited for the office of Commissioner. Mr. WATTS, our candidate for Director, wherever known is highly esteemed, and no two men sustain a more enviable reputation; than he, and Mr. SADLER, who is on the ticket for Auditor. Of Mr. McClellan's qualifications for the office of Treasurer, we need not speak; he is well known to all our citizens, and the strong vote he received in Convention, is unequivocal evidence of his popularity among his fellow-citizens.

The whole is a ticket no citizen of Adams need be ashamed of. Be up then, friends, and doing! Let the "Young Guard" speak in a language that cannot be misunderstood. Strike home for your principles and your men! Give our good loco brethren a small foretaste of what they may expect next year, when the great National battle is to be fought!

Congress.

The Locofoco Convention which met in York on Tuesday last, nominated Dr. SHALL of that town, as their candidate for Congress; and the Conferees who met at Hanover on Friday last, confirmed it so that he is the regular loco-foco candidate for this district. We have, in consequence, withdrawn Mr. McClellan's name from the ticket, who had been recommended by his friends in this county.

Adam Ebaugh is their candidate for Senator, and W. S. Picking, Samuel N. Bailey, and Stephen McKinley for Assembly.

Cumberland County.

The Whig party of Cumberland county met in Convention on Tuesday last, and decided that it was inexpedient to nominate a Whig County Ticket to be voted for at the ensuing election—but are determined to husband their strength for the grand battle of 1844. The whigs will support, we presume, the ticket of the anti-tax party, at the head of which is Gen. Miller.

Vermont Election.

The election for Governor and Legislature of the State, and members of Congress, was held in Vermont a few days ago. Both branches of the Legislature are decidedly whig—nearly two to one. The Whig Governor (Mattocks) it is thought is elected, over both the loco and the abolition candidates. The delegation to Congress will be 3 whig and probably 1 loco, the latter doubtful. Well done Vermont!

The flood of Wednesday night week was very great (says the Frederick Examiner) in the small stream which runs from the northern part of Harbourside valley into Tom's creek above Emmittsburg, carrying away the dams of several families, and the saw-mills themselves, and causing much destruction of other property in its progress.

Terrible Accident.

At least 2000 persons left Baltimore on Tuesday last, for York, to be present at the celebration there of the Anniversary of the Battle of Baltimore. Four large trains, crowded to the full with the Defenders, military and private citizens, were despatched from the depot. The trip was delightful, and every thing augured a gratifying celebration, until a wretched accident occurred, which cast a gloom over all the anticipated pleasure. When the first train reached a point about 8 miles from York, the front axle-tree of the first passenger-car broke, throwing that car, and the two following it, off the track, and shattering them. The persons in the cars escaped without injury, with one trifling exception, but all the persons standing on the platform between the cars sustained fearful injuries. The following named persons were the sufferers: Michael Grubb, leg broken; Samuel Child, thigh broken, and badly bruised; David Pugh, both thighs broken; Peter McCabe, both legs broken; Thomas Wilson, left knee fractured; Ephraim Collet, John Guver, David Lefever, William Allen, John Cooper, James League and Christian Meyer, much bruised and lacerated.

As soon as the sufferers were extricated from the wrecked cars, prompt aid was rendered to them by Doctors Miller, Dunbar, Dorsey, Martin, Maguire, Hall and Ringgold, of Baltimore, who were in the train of cars; and an express locomotive despatched to York, which returned with all the medical gentlemen of that town. The wounded persons were soon after conveyed to the Hospital at York, where their wounds were dressed, and every comfort afforded them; their situation would admit of.

The families of the sufferers went on the next day, and every attention that kindness and medical skill could suggest was given. All but four were able to be removed to Baltimore on Wednesday. Messrs. Child, Pugh, Cooper, and McCabe were in a very critical condition, and still remain at York.

P. S. Our latest accounts from the sufferers are that they are generally doing well, except McCabe, who was not expected to survive Friday or Saturday, mortification having taken place.

A great Locofoco Convention has been held in the State of New York, at which thirty-six Delegates were appointed to the National Convention, instructed to vote for Martin Van Buren. The law friends of John C. Calhoun in the Convention, made an attempt to stem the torrent; but the "little magician" had his plans too well laid. It appears that our good friend Tyler had not a single friend in the Convention.

Acknowledgment.

Mr. Editor:—Permit me to express my obligation to the people of the Lower Merich Creek Congregation, for their contribution of Fifty Dollars, to constitute me an Honorary member of the Presbyterian Board of Education; and I pray that God would not accept this offering but give those who made it to know, that "it is more blessed to give than to receive."

For the Adams Sentinel.

Mr. Editor:—If we may be allowed to draw any inference as to the feelings and determination of the whigs of Adams County, from the character of the candidates selected by them upon their ticket to be supported and elected at the ensuing election, it would certainly seem to be that they are resolved to wipe away the disgrace and retrieve the injury of their defeat last fall by a signal victory now. The "Young Guard" are standing to their arms, and soon their triumphant shouts will announce to the world that victory has again perched on their standards, never again, I trust, to forsake them.

The candidates settled by them, are known, and their characters will speak their eulogium in fitter terms than I could use. Who are they? For Assembly, we have the Hon. JAMES COOPER—a man with whom we are all acquainted, personally or by reputation. Adams County, reduced to one Representative, by the apportionment law of last session, thanks to Gov. Porter, and a loco-foco Legislature, has wisely put forth one of her strongest and most talented sons, to sustain, singly, the burden of her interests in the Legislature, and the nomination of Mr. Cooper has been hailed with gladness and hope by our friends throughout the length and breadth of the Commonwealth.

It is scarcely needful that I should say one word as to his talents and fitness to be our representative. He has been tried twice in a higher, but scarcely more responsible situation of trust. Has he ever deceived the trust, or fallen short of the just expectations of his constituents? Every one will at once respond in the negative. He is honest—he is capable—he is active, energetic, and persevering. Is not this his character? Let those who enjoy the pleasure of his personal acquaintance, answer to those who do not, whether I have correctly characterized him. Or, if any one desires further assurance, let him go to his fellow members in the Congress of the United States, and inquire of them. They will answer that although one of the youngest in years and experience among them, he stood high, deservedly high, in public and private estimation, and sustained a character for solid usefulness that commanded confidence and respect.

So high was the estimate thus placed upon him, that, in the last Congress, he was placed as Chairman, at the head of one of the most laborious and responsible Committees of the House, the Committee on Indian Affairs—a post in which he succeeded that intellectual giant, John Quincy Adams; and which, although placed in such trying proximity, he has preserved reputation suffered none by contrast. I do not mean to say that the Whigs of Adams County are not entitled to some diligence and honest exertion; but his labors, perhaps, are not his services, were solid, his labors practical and useful.

and their results presented to the House and the country in reports and speeches, which testify of his diligence as well as capacity. Has he not, as our representative, been ever vigilant in guarding and promoting our interests? If so, the past furnishes an all-sufficient guaranty for the future.

The approaching session of the Legislature of Pennsylvania will, in all probability, be memorable and interesting—in its various and trying scenes, Adams County will have no reason to blush on account of the ignorance, inexperience, or want of tact of her representative.

In the contemplated impeachment of the present Governor if it should ever be brought to bear, Pennsylvania will have, in him, a representative equal to the crisis—one who will shrink from no just responsibility, and at the same time, be lured into no departure from even-handed justice, by any personal or factious feeling; and in the various plans which will doubtless be submitted for the restoration of public credit, his coolness and judgment, his firmness and integrity, will be of sterling value.

To his political opponents, I believe, he has ever been fair and courteous, avoiding that gross personality of speech and temper which a misguided and perverted zeal too often confounds with and mistakes for the evidence of sound and sincere political faith, but which is rather an evidence of passion and prejudice on the part of those who indulge in it. In his capacity of a Representative, he has ever been found the representative of all and not of party; ever ready, with equal efficiency, to attend to and aid in the business of a political foe as of a political friend; and to yield alike to all their just requirements upon his time and services.

Is he then, or is he not, fit to be our Representative? I leave the answer to your readers.

But this communication is already sufficiently long. I will resume the subject next week, and consider the claims and qualifications of the remaining candidates on the Whig Ticket.

Great Storm.—The Storm of last Thursday night and Friday morning was very general. The flood was great at Baltimore but the damage done was not great. In the District of Columbia the storm was tremendous, blowing down trees, unroofing buildings, and throwing in gable ends. No life was lost.

A lady of Baltimore, Mrs. Elizabeth Gross, died on the 9th inst. aged 112 years. During her long life she never took any medicine, nor had attendance from a physician, until 3 years since, when she received a fall and broke her arm. She was followed to the grave by her descendants to the fifth generation.

Great Conflagration at Manila.

Capt. Lovett, of the ship Melvidera, a Boston, from Manila, reports that a fire broke out at Manila about the last of March, which destroyed six hundred houses, and another on the 1st of April, which also destroyed from sixteen hundred to two thousand houses.
